

3 WAYS

TO INCREASE YOUR INDUSTRY EXPERT TO INSTRUCTOR SUCCESS

If you are concerned that your industry expert instructors are leaving after one or two years and the constant "churn" is affecting your your ability to keep students and programs moving forward, it might be time to ramp up your on-boarding of new faculty.

Check out the new IE2EI course by SkillsCommons IMPACT communities.

Offer online training

How do you provide needed training between hire date and the first time your instructor meets his students? We brought together expert instructors across the nation to create a series of training topics to help technical experts become teaching experts.

1

2

3

Focus on essential skills

Ask yourself: What could have been done differently in new faculty orientation? We have created content to help you recognize the essential skills that will help your industry expert become an expert instructor.

Reduce the fear

What do most industry experts fear when they first start to teach? Standing in front of students for the first time. IE2EI modules contain expert instructors sharing best practices to empower new instructors to overcome the "fear factor".

